New Officers Of Church Announced

R. R. Hartman Heads Congregational Trustees—Outline Year's Policies

Policies to be followed by the Congregational Church during the coming year held the center of interest at the annual meeting of the membership held last evening.

Supper was served by the Woman's Guild to more than a hundred members at 6:30, and was followed by community singing. Rev. Frederic Groetsema gave the invocation, and also acted as moderator of the meeting. Annual reports were given by department heads before presentation of the budget.

Plans for the new year include the Recognition Service to be held in the early spring for Rev. Mr. Groetsema who recently assumed the pastorate. All Congregational Churches in the vicinity will send representatives to this service. Also in formation are extensive plans for the Lenten season.

Recently elected officers of the church who will be inducted into their various offices at a special consecration next Sunday morning are: W. S. Hull and Louis McClellan who will serve as deacons for the next three years: R. H. Pickett and William L. Burr who will assume a two-year trusteeship.

Deadline Is Set For New License Plates

Issuance of new orange-on-black automobile licenses for 1941 began Thursday, January 2, for an estimated total of more than 2,900,000 California-registered motor vehicles.

Applicants for renewals will find the total amount of license fees due in the lower left hand corner of the 1940 registration card. This replaces the former method of notifying registered motorists by postcard of their license costs. Motorists must present the 1940 registration card correctly addressed along with fee payment.

The license renewal period will continue until February 4, after which time increased fees will be imposed as delinquent penalty.

Maccabee Officers To Be Installed January 20

Ray R. Hudson, commander of the recently formed Sierra Madre Chapter of the Maccabees, announces that installation of officers will take place at the Sierra Madre Woman's Clubhouse on the evening of January 20, with the installing team of the Monrovia chapter officiating.

First meeting of the group took the form of a dance held Monday night at the Woman's clubhouse with members and friends numbering over 60 dancing to the music of Pyle's orchestra from San Gabriel.

It is the hope of the organization to build a membership of 125. Regular meetings will be held on the first and third Mondays of each month at the clubhouse.

City Tops Its Red Cross Quota Again

Response To Second Call For Funds Exceeds Sum Set For Community

With the advent of the New Year, the Sierra Madre Chapter of the American Red Cross announced that the city has again gone over the top in the annual roll call, the quota for 1940 being $1323.62, exceeding by $124.99, the total for 1939. This amount is for relief work within the nation and is placed in an entirely separate fund from that which is being used for war relief work.

Mrs. Frances Brain, local chairman for war production, announces that by the middle of January a consignment of supplies for war refugees should be ready for shipment. When completed the shipment will include 30 warm children's dresses, 15 women's dresses, 42 hand knit woolen sweaters, 45 pairs of socks and 10 layettes.

Women of St. Catherine's Guild are now completing the layettes, while many of the dresses have been made by the Tabithian women of Bethany Church. Members of the Monrovia Emblem Club have taken the reponsibility for a large number of knitted garments, others have been taken home by Sierra Madre women.

From the Washington Red Cross headquarters comes word that during 1940 the American Red Cross provided relief in cash and supplies to the value of $16,690,000 to war victims in nine nations. The greater part of the relief supplies already has been distributed although shipments now are enroute to Great Britain and China. A ship is about to be loaded for Greece and further shipments for Finland will go forward at an early date. A summary of the relief reveals that the chief items have been cash assistance, clothing, blankets and bedding for hospitals and civilians, medical, surgical and hospital supplies, foodstuffs, and ambulance and autmotive equipment.

Red Cross relief supplies are shipped only after clearance as to their needs with the representatives of the American Red Cross stationed as supervisors at points of distribution, staff members being located in England, France, Finland, China, Greece, Geneva and in Portugal, where the representative is aiding in repatriating Americans from France.

SEES FATE OF HIGH RIDING HITLER MIRRORED BY THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

By Perley Poore Sheehan
"THE WATCHTOWER"

IT SEEMS to us that if we were Hitler—but let us not as the novelist says anticipate. Only, we've been reading again "The Reds of the Midi," a novel of the French Revolution, which we read for the first time more than forty years ago. When we loved it and it thrilled us. Reactions that we now have experienced again. More strongly than ever, perhaps. Because of developments since that earlier reading—within ourself, France helping, and then in France herself. For France was generous—to us as she was to all the rest of the world—as generous as any great empire can ever be. And that goes regardless too— of color, creed, or place of origin. While now, at this present hour, France —other mother-country that she's been to everyone—is once more up for just such another ordeal by fire and rack as the one she was going through when those red-bonneted volunteers came marching up to Paris from Marseilles, harnessed to their cannon and chanting a song.

A SONG which didn't even have a name as yet—a song which Paris itself had scarcely heard as yet. This, although it had been written in Strasbourg, the French North, by a young artillery officer named Rouget — Rouget of Lisle. He'd written it, words and music, all between two days, his genius fired by the threat of an invasion from abroad abetted by raw treason at home. It wasn't a song that it would have been safe to sing in public just then, any more than it would be safe to sing it in France today—France Occupied or Unoccupied. But Madame Roland — "O Liberty, how many crimes are committed in thy name!"—she'd heard it and got it to a friend of hers who even then was forming that band of volunteers down in Marseilles. Thus, by public acclaim, "the Marseillaise!" The world's greatest fighting song: "Aux armes. Citoyens!"

A SHORT book, "The Reds of Midi," by Felix Gras (pronounced "graw"); himself a true Frenchman of the Midi—which is to say, of the French South; who wrote, however, not in French but in the language of his native Provence. A beautiful language. One of the Romance tongues, somewhere between medieval French and early Tuscan ;sonorous and rolling, beloved

District Attorney Starts Inquiry Into Shortage In City Water Funds

Deputy District Attorney Harris was sent here Tuesday by District Attorney Dockweiler to inquire into the shortage in the city water department funds for which a former city employe is now serving a sentence, and to determine whether or not city funds and accounts are being kept and accounted for as the law requires. He is to return next week to continue his investigation.

Arrival of the investigating attorney followed appearance of City Clerk Waverly E. Pratt at the district attorney's office where it is understood he was asked to give his account of the manner in which the water fund shortage occured and explain how the city's accounting system is conducted— and the later visit of Mayor W. J. Schiltz to the district attorney's office during which he asked that there be a thorough official inquiry into the affair that has kept Sierra Madreans troubled for several months.

It was necessary to the welfare of the community that the whole affair be straightened out in the public's mind and that no one be left under suspicion, the mayor is reported to have said.

Deputy Harris interviewed various city employes, citizens and members of the Citizens Committee of Nine during his visit here Tuesday and spent some time going over various files concerning the water department shortage and subsequent events. Departing he announced he would return early next week.

Local Woman Is Accorded High Honor

Selected By U.S.C. For Important Post On Women's Civic Conference

Statewide recognition for her splendid work for the advancement of civic and social projects was accorded this week to Mrs. Waverly E. Pratt by the University of Southern California, which through its public relations department, elected her to the executive committee of the Women's Civic Conference for 1941. Only women of proven ability in civic affairs are selected to serve on the executive committee of the conference which has long been a practical as well as inspirational force in helping women to meet the challenging problems of democracy.

Mrs. Pratt, now president of the Sierra Madre Woman's Club and secretary-treasurer of the Sierra Madre Youth Activities has been for the last two years Americanization and character Education chairman for the Pasadena Council Parent Teachers Association, representing 33 schools of the area. Last year she also served as Americanization chairman of the Sierra Madre Woman's Club, and for her outstanding work was designated by the state Americanization chairman C.F.W.C. as having given the finest service for Americanization and youth advancement in the state. A record of her work in these capacities has been forwarded to Washington D.C.

Fire Loss In Tailspin Here In '40

With the closing of 1940, the Sierra Madre Fire Department through Joe Swanson, secretary, revealed that fire loss in the community took a decided drop for the year. Total loss for dwellings and contents aggregated $1792.75, as against $3470 for the year of 1939.

The department respoded to 22 calls, five of which were for dwellings, and five for cars, while 12 were for brush and tree blazes, the latter coming on Hallowe'en and were caused by pranksters.

First alarm for this year was sounded on the morning of January 3rd, when a small explosion from a gas water heater occured at the home of Mrs. Remington Stone, 321 East Grand View avenue. Papers in the basement were ignited, but flames were brought under immediate control by W. D. Richards, fire chief, who arrived first at the tSone residence and had the fire out before the trucks arrived.

Life In Syria Told Women's Society

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Bethany Chruch held an all-day meeting Tuesday. Both men and women were invited to hear Mr. Faadeh of Damascus, Syria. A pot-luck lucheon was served at noon in the Recreation Hall. Mrs. A. E. O'Banion presided over the business meeting at 1:30, when Daniel Rose of the Los Angeles Bible Institute was the afternoon speaker.

Demands Jury Trial On Hit-Run Charge

At a hearing held last Thursday on a hit and run charge growing out of a collision between his car and one driven by Thomas Douglas Watson, III, December 28, Henry P. Howland of 225 North Lima street entered a plea of not guilty and asked for a jury trial. The case which was to have come up before Judge Thomas Neale tomorrow has been continued until next week.

Howland who is a well known resident of Sierra Madre, has been an employee of the U.S. Postal Department in Pasadena for 29 years. He was on his way to work when the accident occurred at Michillinda and Highland avenues. He was charged with hit and run driving because of his failure to observe the mandate of the motor vehicle code which provides that all drivers involved in motor accidents must stop at the point of collision: Thomas Douglas Watson, III, driver of the other car, is a brother of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., of 500 North Michillinda avenue.

Home Building Is Going Forward Fast

Wide gains over a year ago in recent FHA home mortgage insuring activities indicate that residential building will get off to a fast start this year, Federal Housing Administrator Abner H. Ferguson announced this week.

During the four weeks ending December 28, applications for mortgage insurance on new homes to be built under FHA inspection showed an increase of 24 percent over the like period of 1939 as compared with a 13 per cent gain in November, Mr. Ferguson reported. In the week ending December 28, the gain over last year was about 35 percent.

The second six period tilt will see a San Fernando Valley quartet and the Tigers in conflict. The jumping attractions which almost always gives the galleries one or two spectacular spills will be run off between polo matches. The program will start at 1:45.

IMPORTANCE OF BOY SCOUTS STRESSED BY KIWANIANS UNDER WAR CLOUDS

Acknowledging that there is a vital need to build a new type of thinking in American boys, the Sierra Madre Kiwanis Club held its first meeting of the year at Wistaria Vine Gardens Tuesday, pledging increased aid to the Boy Scouts in this community during the coming year.

Local Kiwanians have adopted the attitude that during the present world crisis, Boy Scout activities become a project of major imporance for the nation, as boys who have had scout training will undoubtedly be better fitted for their part in the national defense program than those who know nothing of camp life or military discipline.

Prominent Boy Scout representatives present at Tuesday's meeting who sat in with President Lee Evans, Bill Burr, Frank Spencer and Al Madin to discuss plans for the year were Larry MacNamee of Monrovia, finance chairman for this district and district representative Victor Teeney.

Preceeding hte conference on Boy Scout activities the meeting took the form of a round table discussion which brought forth tentative plans for each Kiwanian to sponsor a local underprivileged child for the year. Four open forum meetings under the Kiwanis sponsorship were arranged to discuss vital current poblems. Methods by which the community fund can be raised were also discussed.

New officers for the year who assumed their duites are Lee Evans, president; Carl Hansen, vice-president; Art Morse, secretary, John FitzGerald, secretary.

Only 100 reservations will be accepted for the dinner, and as three fourths of that amount have already been subscribed, Sierra Madreans planning to attend should make reservations without delay.

Tournaments Begin At The New Center

Adults Will Be Invited To Take Advantage Of Recreational Facilities

Robert Holmes, manager in charge of the Sierra Madre Recreation Center on East Montecito avenue announced this week that badminton and tennis tournaments will begin at the Center Saturday afternoon. All players will be grouped according to age.

During the week two extra games have been added at the center, which is averaging a 400 weekly attendance. To date young people working there have completed 75 craft pieces, mainly copper work.

Tentative plans for the spring season include one day a week to be reserved for adults who wish to take advantage of the recreational advantages of the Center. it is also hoped that organizations of the community will gather there at regular intervals for games and craft activities. Those wishing to take advantage of this privilege should contact Mr. Holmes who will arrange a schedule for them.

Shave-tail Corporal And Ex-Paper Hanger' Should Not Awe America, Women Told

Woman's Club Told Disunity, Fifth Columnists And Fear Are This Nation's Greatest Dangers In The World Crisis— Noted Lecturer Speaks

Americans should not be gloomy, wear long faces and become unduly alarmed over the world conditions of today, because our own country was built on upheaval and unrest, Dr. Frederic P. Woellner, UCLA professor and noted lecturer told the Woman's Club yesterday in a talk on "Forces at work undermining our present day civilization." It was third in a series of lectures by well known college professors arranged by officers of the club on "Why Civilizations Fall," and proved to be by far the most interesting of the series so far.

Dr. Woellner began his talk with the words, "I will not begin my speech with 'in days like these,' because I feel that we live in delightful times." He pointed out that there were entirely too many subversive elements already at work in our modern civilization without Americans becoming long-faced and gloomy. He observed that the most important thing in man is his spirit and "the most important thing in the spirit is the quickening power, the motivation and the up-thrust within man which makes of him a good person."

We of America should not become unduly alarmed or upset over the condition of the world today. Our own country which was built on upheaval and unrest is a strong country full of strong people. "Therefore," asked Dr. Woellner, "why should we become excited over any 'shave-tail corporal and ex-paperhanger'."?

"Democracy always builds again," said the speaker. "The subversive elements that are trying to destroy Democracy are those people who blast at the foundation spirit of mankind and that spirit is necessary to any country. Material conceptions alone are limited and deadly and suicide is the end."

According to Dr. Woellner there are too many of us who are apt to carry our disagreements and arguments around with us when they are no longer of any value. "We have our unity on the right to disagree without being disagreeable," he said. There is always a law of Finality which he summed up in this manner: "You can't argue all the time because finally you have to make up your mind. Americas' mind is made up. Now something must be done and arguments must not be carried on after the decision has been made. Disunits are our greatest harm. Men must get together with all of mankind. If we would combine our knowledge, blood, action and wealth, how strong we would be. If we were cemented by a common outlook we could resist these subversive elements who say, 'Woe is me' and 'It can't be done,' in the face of adversity. America has been built on a whole series of miracles and there is no reason why it shouldn't continue to exist as long as it's citizens retain their ideals. Democracy is a pyramid built on its base while Naziism and Fascism are pyramids built on the apex and are destined to fall"

War is old and "Peace will come as night follows day." When that time comes it remains the duty of mankind to "take the sword and beat it into a plowshare." Our war materials, our tanks, airplanes and guns should be used for peace-time pursuits. We should not be afraid of what peace might bring us.

"The crash in 1929 was not due to the ending of the war but was the result of the gambling spirit of too many people," he said. "That will not necessarily happen again. We must make use of the creative intensities of war and turn them into the beauties of peace."

"Faith is an emancipatory influence," he added, "and I have faith and a lot of hope. That casts out fear. We can add to the terror or take from it. It is up to us."

"We are going to rush into this new year with a new battle cry 'Democracy, Love of God and Faith in Mankind.' The legions of death will not smother us again. We will lay the foundations of a tearless world."

Cities Of The Future Are Discussed

Socialistic Planning Of Housing Held Contrary To American Ideals

Is the American big city doomed by the trend toward decentralization— and will the city of the future be planned by the State, rther than remaining a "political accident?"

The question was given one-man debate at the Wistaria Vine supper forum Sunday night by Dr. Webster Vannier, who discussed Lewis Mumford's controversial book, "Technics and Civiliaztion." Mumford's contention that individualism should give way before the socialistic planning of housing and organization for function was disputed by Dr. Vannier—who stood on the contention that the human element of choice must always be paramount in this country.

Universal housing—that is, the theory of a $4000 modern dwelling for every family in the U.S. —might well be achieved, Vannier admitted, but only at the expense of defense, medical progress and all the other fronts of progress.

Mumford's book brought out the fact that decentralization was now saving England, and that the defense program here emphasizes the same trend. Also, the large city such as New York, entails disproportionate expense for disease and crime, both of which are bred from metropolitan conditions of today.

Rains To Continue Until Weekend

With unsettled weather and probable showers scheduled for Sierra Madre and Southern California until Saturday local rainfall figures which now greatly exceeds those for this time last year are expected to soar during the next few days.

According to latest reports of United States Weather Bureau, extensive storms now hanging over the entire Pacific coast will disperse during the weekend.

Famed Architect To Speak At Wistaria Gardens Sunday

One of America's most distinguished architects and authorities on Mayan history will prove to the Wistaria Vine sunset supper audience Sunday evening that the ancient culture of the Mayas not only is sparkling with interest—but even has an application to modern day defence needs!

Robert B. Stacy-Judd, English born author of such intriguing works at "Atlantis, Mother of Empires" and the recently published "Maya Manuscript," believes that the Mayan architecture revealed in excavations in the Southwest and Mexico has a modern adaptability both in simplicity of style and material.

The Stacy-Judd appearance, postponed from December 29 because of the weather ,is expected to attract not only prominent historical society members from throughout the Southland, but home builders and readers of fanastic fiction stories as well.

The speech at 7 p.m. Sunday will be free to the public as always, following the 6 o'clock supper presided over by Mrs. W. J. Lawless.

TOM TYLER RETURNS

Tom Tyler, much liked former Sierra Madre businessman who has been operating a motor court in Los Angeles for the last few years, has returned to make his home here, occupying his former residence at 458 East Montecito avenue. While he lived in the metropolitan area Tyler was a regular weekly visitor and never lost his contacts with his many friends here. Sale of his motor court was effective with the first of the year, but he had moved into his former home several days before that. "It is certainly good to get back among real friends," he told old associates on his return.

FINE RECORD OF ACHIEVEMENT SENDS WILSON 4-H CLUB OUT FRONT IN THIS DISTRICT

Wesley Alderson, student at Wilson Junior High School, was elected to the presidency of the Wilson 4H Club at a meeting of the club Saturday evening. Young Alderson is succeeding Lorne Pratt of this city, long an active 4H Club member, who recently sent in his resignation.

Norman Jensen, vice-president, presided at Saturday's meeting when reports were given of the distribution of Christmas baskets. Refreshments were served a tthe adjournment of the meeting. Members present from Sierra Madre were Richard Twycross, Norman Jensen, Ruth Coit and Bonita Williams, a leader.

Activities now on the club calender include a basketball game to be played with the Wilson Hi-Y Club, and the annual Wilson 4H Club banquet for which plans are now being made.

A year of unusual achievement is just closing for the club which during the 1940 season captured more prizes than any other 4H organization in the district. First prize was captured by the club for its feature booth at the Los Angeles County Fair, in competition with other Los Angeles County 4H clubs as well as clubs from adjacent counties. At the San Gabriel Valley Achievement Night the Wilson group won the award of the evening for having the best showing and largest attendance.

Awards for the year include four cups given in acknowledgement of the number of ribbons won by the club; the nursery and pigeon cups, and a large number of ribbons captured by club members.

New Record Is Established By After Holiday Attendance At Sierra Madre Schools

Shattering the usual after holiday attendance records at the Sierra Madre Grammar School, only 23 children of the approximate five hundred enrollees were absent when school reopened Monday morning following the Christmas and New Year vacations.

According to Gerald Smith, school superintendent, this is an unusual record as school absentees regularly average around 8 percent of the enrollment, while during the seven days preceeding Christmas, the rate soared to 17 percent, due in part, to the "flu" epidemic which is now rapidly subsiding.

Another "unusual" at the school this year is the absence of children who formerly have come into school during the racing season at Santa Anita. While heretofore the average number of such pupils ranged between 20 and 25, this year has brought only one additional child into the school.

Opening day attendance was also high at St. Rita's School which reported almost 100 per cent attendance. Here also few new students have enrolled for the winter, with only four recent enrollees now at the school.

As It Appears To me

¶ We have been bewitched by the beauty of the night and lured away from our work for a long, solitary walk close against the foothills. Before us has lain the sparkling panorama of the San Gabriel valley from which arises a subdued and distant drone to disturb the stillness of the night. Alone up there with so much beauty all around us— fragrant white alyssum springing up at our feet — and the moonlight shafting through the clouds to highlight the hills, our mind has been busy with the strange and irreconcilable complexities of the world where grandeur and diabolical horror walk side by side and a man may step cautiously over a flower which his foot might crush and at the same time strike with a rapier of bitter words into the heart of a friend.

¶ Leaving such thoughts — we have returned to tell you that destiny at this new year has indeed been gracious to our fair colleague, Florence Bertsch, whom many of you have come to like tremendously, and whom you will now be missing. With us though, you will be happy to know that she has taken another step toward her goal which is simply "to some day write really well," and is now a staff member of the Pasadena Star News and Post.

¶ As we say adios to one fellow worker we are happy to welcome a new member to the NEWS staff, Elizabeth Trimble (whom henceforth and on all occasions will be Libby Trimble to us all). This young women has, so to speak, grown up in a newspaper office, and has behind her a long and splendid journalistic tradition. As a youngster she found herself quite at home in the office of the Argus of Robinson, Ill., which her paternal grandmother published and edited for 50 years. From the University of Illinois Miss Trimble went into music, then writing—and from this office may—who knows— go far toward worthwhile achievement in either field.

¶ Dean Bode ,who is always generously giving help to someone, has gone to no end of trouble to enlighten us about the two versions of the Christmas blessing which we asked about awhile ago and has written for us the explanation that follows:

¶ "The question has arisen as to the proper translation of the Christmas song of the Angels in the second chapter of St. Luke's gospel. What is called the King James version of the Bible— the English Bible we have used for three centuries— gives the passage thus: 'Glory to God in the Highest, and on earth peace, goodwill toward men.' Goodwill Toward men, was the translation of the Greek words 'en anthropois eudokia.' —Margaret Eliason.

"WHODUNIT" MYSTERY AT THE PLAYHOUSE

There is something new under the wide cloak of mystery and "I Killed the Count," which comes to Pasadena Community Playhouse, January 14 to 25, will set playgoing detectives to scratching their heads and reaching for solutions by the time the first five minutes of footlight time have passed. Alec Coppel's noted mystery drama reaches above the regular "whodunit" category to become a "whichonedunit." Utilizing an ingenious trend, thrill-maker Coppel involves the confessions of four persons for his single murder and brings a new high in audience interest by a flashback technique.

Holiday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Trimbel were Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Trimbel, daughter and son, of San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Trimbel of Pasadena; Mrs. Mattie Collette and daughter Myra of Altadena, and Mrs. Myrtle Wilkins of Long Beach.

What we truly and earnestly aspire to be, that in some sense we are. The mere aspiration, by changing the frame of the mind, for the moment realizes itself.
—Anna Jameson.

DOLLAR OUT FRONT

It is in keeping with the plain old law of supply and demand that the American press gives far more front page space to news on national and local finance than was given a generation ago. A generation ago such news was restricted to the financial page in the back of the paper—while today, changes in prices, in public borrowings, in treasury statements and international exchange, are of general interest. Since 1900, America's population has increased 60 per cent—but in that time the number of persons owning life insurance policies has increased 650 per cent to a total of 65,000,000! More than 40,000,000 citizens now have a stake in Social Security Act benifits, and 44,000,000 have savings accounts. Thus by tens of millions Americans have become capitalists in the true sense of the word—with personal interest in the maintenance of our economic system on a solid basis, and with a direct stake in the soundness of our currency and financial institutions. So the Almighty Dollar is mightier than ever. It's moved out to the front page because it commands a front page audience. It isn't just Wall Street's dollar nowadays. It's the peoples' dollar.

LET'S BE TOLERANT

It is not alone in great air fleets, nor in the munitions of war that our American homeland can, and must be, defended.

There are enemies within the gates that cannot be wiped out with the weapons of warfare. To these, Chief Justice Hughes referred the other day in speaking of "rancor and bigotry, racial animosities and intolerance as the deadly enemies of true democracy." Those who promote such feelings not only violate the very spirit of democracy but, wittingly or unwittingly, are endangering the nation's security in a critical period. No nation can be strong if it is divided by rancor and bigotry. It is for this very reason that the enemies of democracy have always so sedulously sought to stir up internal strife and intolerance in the countries they sought to conquer—a nation split by dissension makes an easy victim!

In his astute comment, Chief Justice Hughes pointed out that "liberty cannot be conserved by majority rule unless the majority hold sacred basic individual rights regardless of race or creed, so that, along with our differences of view, political and religious, we have a deep and abiding sense of human dignity and worth."

To continue to hold sacred these basic individual rights is to make secure the bastions of America's internal defenses.

WOMEN ARE GAINING

The ladies ar staging a comeback. This year in politics, they're going to have a bigger say in framing the laws of the nation and of the states.

The entrance of women into our embattled political arenas has not yet achieved any marked purification of politics, as was fondly hoped by the militant early day suffragettes. Yet were Susan B. Anthony, Frances E. Willard and other valiant fighters for women's freedom present in our midst today, they might claim, and with justice, too, that this is so only because women have not yet entered politics to any great extent. It is also true that women voters do not rally, as a rule, around women candidates. If they did, our roster of women representatives in Congress and at Sacramento would undoubtedly be much higher than it is now.

However, New England may be turning the tide in this direction. No other section of the country has come anywhere near equalling the number of political victories scored by women in those states at the November polls. To the state legislatures of Connecticut, New Hampshire and Vermont alone, a total of 67 women legislators were elected in the last election. California elected two.

Meanwhile, the opening session of Congress found 140 new women representatives present in the House, and nine in the Senate—a total gain of eight seats in Congress over 1938.

Surely, if slowly, the ladies are adding to the size of their political forces. It would be a brash man who claimed their political sun is setting.

Sees Fate Of Hitler Mirrored By French Revolution

of St. Francis and the troubadours. Here so skilfully translated that, as you might say, you yourself become translated in the reading of it. So that you also may sit there those enchanted nights in the shoemaker's shop listening to old Pascal—a soldier of the Empire but himself one of the greatest troubadours of them all—telling you things you crave to hear.

THIS because, as you read, you come to feel a curious personal interest. As if this were not just some epic fragment from a foreign land— not though this foreign land be France. Or, if France, then France as a symbol or the soul of the world in general. To us, at any rate, these last few days as we sat a devout member of old Pascal's congregation, it seemed almost as if we were absorbing some master parable of our own America— especially America — her very life and hope of continued existence as America. Somewhat as if France and America were one, the vital substance of each so blended that only God—not Hitler—would ever again be able to get them apart. Washington's ragged Continentals, fire in their eyes and their bare feet bleeding—you saw them too, all the time that French Pascal and his shaggy crew went singing and starving their way to Paris.

TO THAT Old Paris we ourself used to know so well: Paris of the Bastille and the Faubourg St. Antoine; of Lafayette and Franklin; of Danton, Robespierre, and Charlotte Corday; of Poe and Victor Hugo and Eugene Sue; of the Louvre, of Notre Dame, of the Sorbonne and the Luxembourg; of the Seine, the Boulevards, and of all those twisting, narrow streets — as seething hot with life and as charged with human dynamite, these last, as the veins of old Pascal himself or of any doughboy in the A.E.F. For there were old throw-back days of our own, come some haunted or slightly alcoholic night, with a half-moon hanging low and a fog slithering up from the Seine; when, plain as anything, one of those fountains in the Place de la Concorde would become a guillotine.

THERE on what, in Pascal's day, had been called the "Place de la Revolution." And exactly there where the modern fountain stood had been placed that thing we saw instead. And there, through the tumult, came King Louis. Let's, from another book, quote from an eyewitness: "Is it really the same man whom we now see shoved about by four mere helpers of the headsman, stripped by force, his voice drowned by a roar of drums, struggling still as they tie him down...? Is this that same person we saw crowned at Rheims, surrounded by all the great ones clustered at his knees, hailed by a thousand acclamations, adored almost as if he were a God...?" Well, for Rheims read—Munich.

IT ALL comes back to us. And now they say that Hitler has robbed this one-time Place de la Revolution of its ornamental lights. They were bronze and they were beautiful. But, if we were Hitler, we believe we'd leave it alone, this particular bit of Paris. It may be a jinx. For, after King Louis it was to be the turn of his royal widow. Him they'd brought in a carriage; she, poor thing, had been granted nothing better than a common cart. The people hated her so. And they howled louder than ever their hilarity when the executioner held up her severed head. Thus, Marie Antoinette! She also had been—an Austrian.

A SAD STORY

Ice bags and aspirin won't cure this one. Twenty-one traffic deaths during Christmas week! Eighteen traffic deaths during the week the New Year was ushered in. A total of 39 dead and nearly 1,000 seriously injured in traffic during the so-called Holiday Season!

MARCH OF RIMES

By H. F. NOAKE

FOR INSTANCE, EMPTY

What drama lies in certain words; what hellish parts they find to play; for instance, EMPTY, serves us well, to prove the truth of what we say. First—EMPTY stomachs all about, where hunger has no right to be; abundant food for everyone, yet thousands seeking charity. Next—EMPTY every passing day for men adrift and unemployed, in search of non-existent jobs, their confidence about destroyed. And now, those EMPTY promises of foreign countries, once in need; to whom we loaned a goodly sum, which, sad to say, has gone to seed. The world is full of EMPTY things, a heart, a purse, a rocking chair; and EMPTY sleeves are back again, to show what armless soldiers wear. If man applied the golden rule to all his dealings, every day; then EMPTY, with its kith and kin, would fold their tents and steal away.

MIGRANT PROBLEM BECOMES ONE OF NATIONAL CONCERN AS BIG CITIES ARE HIT

By RALPH H. TAYLOR
(Executive Secretary, Agricultural Council of California)

Perhaps you remember "Grapes of Wrath." Perhaps you remember "Factories in the Field" — and all the other diatribes, uttered and written, against California farmers because California agriculture couldn't absorb and provide jobs for all the migrants from the Dust Bowl and points Middle-West.

During the hectic period when that lurid literature was achieving its greatest circulation, California's rural areas took a beating on almost every newsstand in America. The Communists broke into print with rabid denunciations of the "land barons," who refused to part with a few acres for the destitute Joads and their families. The LaFollette Committee conducted an "investigation" —and denounced the Associated Farmers of California, the American Legion, townsihp officers and all and sundry for failing in hospitality to the nomads from Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas and every other dust-ridden point of the compass.

Nearly 800,000 itinerant farmers and farm hands poured into California in a few years, all seeking sustenance, and California agriculture was roundly denounced because it couldn't absorb them. Novels were written on the subject; moving pictures were produced; congressional committees were convened— and California farmers were depicted to the nation as heartless industrialists, who lived on the fat of the land, but were blind to the sufferings of their fellowmen.

That was a year ago, or two years ago, and there is irony in the fact, perhaps, that the shoe is now on the other foot.

The great metropolitan areas of the United States— Detroit and Los Angeles, Chicago and New York, Pittsburg and Cleveland— now have their migrant problem, due to the fact that the national defense program has concentrated attention on the big industrial cities of America.

If an aircraft factory needs 2,000 men, 50,000 suddenly appear and camp nearby. If an automotive factory, turned into a parts factory for war purposes, needs 5,000 men, three times that number suddenly encamp around it. And as a consequence, the migrant problem—while still a serious problem in many rural areas —is also becoming a serious problem in urban America.

In Washington, Mrs. Roosevelt tells an investigating committee it is a shame that labor unions have such high initiation fees that migrant workers can't possibly qualify for jobs in defense industries. In other cities, mayors and supervisors announce that the labor market already is glutted —and that itinerant workers should look elsewhere.

And on the outskirts of great cities, there are itinerant camps and Hoovervilles, just as there are— and have been— in rural California all through the depression.

No one has sympathized more with the victims of the Dust Bowl, or the unemployed— desperately seeking employment — than California farmers. And no one has pleaded more in Washington for a square deal for the migrants than Californi farmers. But until the last few weeks, Washington turned a deaf ear. Washington contented itself with condeming California — because California, as Washington viewed it, had failed to take care of the migrants.

Now, the problem is nationwide. Now the great cities of the country are demanding aid in coping with the migrant problem. And now, perhaps, Congress will provide relief—will recognize that no section, and no class of people, can possibly solve a national problem. There is reason for this change in attitude. The reason is that America's great cities, as well as its agricultural areas, are demanding federal action.

California agriculture still has its migrant problem — and will still have it for many years to come. There are still tens of thousands of unemployed in rural California, all in desperate need of work and food and clothing. But at least, California agriculture will have some frienls in court when it cries out for federal aid in solving the migrant problem. And perhaps it won't be pilloried for insisting that it is a national problem!

Junior Cast Will Sing Grand Opera

The San Gabriel Opera Company will present Giuseppe Verdi's imortal opera "Rigoletto" on the evening of Monday, January 27, in the Alhambra High school auditorium.

Great interest is afield to hear again an opera given almost entirely with junior singers. As for the two past performances given by juniors La Traviata and Lucia di Lammarmoor, yuung voices have been developed to accomplish this almost impossible feat of singing leading roles in operas that only great singers have attempted.

If John Doe, who swore off drinking on New Year's Day with the best intentions in the world, has already toppled off the wagon, don't be to hard n him. It was, if you believe the scientists, in the cards. Dr. Charles H. Durfee, at the recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, at Philadelphia, declares that a person who "makes up his mind to abstain from alcohol is licked before he's started. By concentrating on 'not drinking' he is inducing a state of mind which, because of his preoccupation with the problem, is self-defeating. He is still 'thinking alcohol,' that is, dealing with the symptom instead of the cause. Alcohol can't be fought; it must be circumvented." Of course, the aspirant for a permanent seat aboard the water wagon seeks to do a bit of circumventing ,too. He wants to dodge the bottle. But the researchers in the field say that what he really needs to circumvent are the customs, habits, and conditions which make him want to drink and flee from reality in the first place. Now this timely post-New Year's diagnosis from the specialists in alcoholism may not make certain resolution breakers feel any more cheerful, but at least it will tell them why they have failed. They were directing their fire at the wrong enemy.

A new year brought an old dish to California last week when articles of incorporation were filed for the Pay Roll Guarantee Association. It's still Ham 'n Eggs, freshly garnished with a new name. Evidently ham and egg promoters want to be sure and keep on the public payroll during '41.

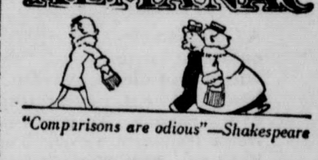

The coming of the New Year does not find the course of conquest running smoothly. Increasing friction is reported between Germany and the French government of Marshal Petain. Difficulties are cropping up with the establishment of the "new order" in Rumania. The greater part of Italy's army in Libya is now said to be immoblized, killed or captured by British forces. Any plan by the Axis powers to seize the French fleet and give Italy the balance of naval power in the Mediterranean has been thwarted by the simple fact that Marshal Petain recently despatched the French fleet from French ports to North Africa. Spain's Foreign Minister, in a published interview the other day, apologized, in effect, for having acted against Britain's interest in taking over the internationalized zone in Tangier in Africa. In the Far East, Japan is nursing an important diplomatic defeat in her failure to conclude with Russia a permanent treaty to end the long drawn out Russo-Japanese fisheries disputes. Whether all these signs are portents of the future, or merely passing squalls on the diplomatic seas, they were noticeable and numerous enough to provide leaders of Axis powers with prospects of a far from happy New Year.

Even though the turning of the year casts Californians' thoughts toward the months ahead, the year-end setling of "tourists' accounts" by Californians, Inc., has turned up with cheering news worth notice. During the 382 days in which the Golden Gate Exposition was in operation in 1939 and 1940, tourist travel in all of California reached an all-time high. Specifically, 2,530,643 tourists visited California, and spent more than 328 million dollars during those two periods in which the Treasure Island turnstiles were clicking. A forutnate California not only digs successfully for gold. Because of her undying scenic charms, tourists bring precious gold nuggets to her!

Few Congresses have had to deal with more weighty and complicated matters than those confronting the present 77th session. Not only is there the matter of deciding on what basis to make increased aid available to Britain, but there are vital domestic money problems to be treated—a field so complicated that even its experts can usually be found in thorough disagreement. The nation has now virtually reached its federal debt limit, and done so at a time when the country must, of necessity, pour additional billions into the building of a vast war machine. How to pay for these untold billions now, and in the future, without deranging our national economy in the process is one of the formidable tasks to which Congress has to provide a workable solution. To defend the country against the possible dangers of inflation, the Federal Reserve Board has just proposed repeal of the President's power to devalue the dollar, repeal of "greenback" legislation and certain other changes. These recommendations may yet find their way to the floor of the House and add one more task to the momentous work program of the new Congress.

To a Michigan judge must go credit for having solved the apparently insoluble— the conflict between children of members of Jehovah's Witnesses and schoolboards who have been horrified at these children's refusal to salute the flag. These youngsters are not enemies of the republic; their parents simply take literally the Biblical injunction against bowing down before any image or emblem. Hence, they refuse to salute the American or any other flag. The Michigan judge proposed that 19 children brought before him in such a case simply give an oral pledge of allegiance to the United States instead of the salute. His suggestion was accepted by both sides. We trust his statesmanlike solution will be practiced elsewhere.

Picturesque South American Country Comes To Pasadena

Branson de Cou, known to thousands for his exquisite color pictures, will bring a color motion picture of Guatemala to the Pasadena Civic Auditorium January 16 under the auspices of the Pacific Geographic Society.

Guatemala has often been called the photographer's paradise. So far unspoiled by exploitation, this country of Central America is one of the most beautiful, not only of the Americas, but of the world. A land of jungles, mountains and volcanos, its people are descended from the Mayas. Each district has its distinct costume, skirt, waist and headdress of the women, and trousers, coat and hat of the men. Handmade and distinctive of design, the embroideries which are used as decoration are highly colored, the entire costume setting off the beauty of the women, making every scene a riot of color as they move about from the public fountains to their houses, down village roads with towering mountains against a cobalt sky.

In a world torn by conflicting ideas, it is a welcome surcease to see a land of beauty where the people pursue their daily tasks, simply and joyfully; where the public market on Sunday is the great occasion of the week, and business and religion comingle happily.

What's Going On At The Grammar School

AS TOLD BY THE PUPIL-REPORTERS

Mrs. Coupe's 2B-2A class: We have many fine boys and girls in our class. They are Dale Dotts, Louise Mason, Delbert Lopez, Charles Davis, Richard Quittner, Leonard Barrett, Dorothy Oakley, David Noble, Sylvia Worthington, Arnold Richtner, Denis Keating, John Woehler, Irvin Carpenter, Mary Rita Griffen, Foster Bumpus ,Louis Osti, Wesley Shipway, George Kistner, Patrick Canady, George Carlson, Jeanne Pollgreen, Ronald McMillan, Elvin Williams, William Sparks, Joyce Lang, Valerie Valencia, Rachel Parra, Marilyn Iffrig, Marjorie Scoville, Nan Hathaway, Edwin Jacobson, Laurel Jean Dunstan, Audrey Dempsey, Swight Schultz, Joan Young, Leroy Mesa and Lowell Huntsinger.—Marjorie Scoville.

Mrs. Adam's 4B Class: Mrs. Adams told our class about her trip to Death Valley. She brought back some colorful rocks of borax and copper. She went through the borax mine. She also brought back some screw beans that the Indians use for food. She stopped at a house made of bottles. Ubehebe crater was formed by a gas bubble that burst. The top is one-half mile across and it is 780 feet deep. Bad water was 280 feet below sea level. She told us some very funy stories.— Excerpts from stories by members of the 4B Class.

Mrs. Wheeler's 6B Class: During our art period we have been making carved wooden boxes and copper plaques, clay scarabs, and paper weights. The designs will be mainly Egyptian, as we have been studying Egypt. We have an active class organization of which Barbara Byrd is president; Eileen Foote, vice-president; Carolyn Brooks, secretary; and Julian Weber, class representative. We have a meeting once a week. The past few weeks the subject for our programs has been "Patriotism." Our last proaram was on "How to Use Liberty." Paul Worthington, class librarian, is kept busy checking books in and out during library period as the children read many books.—Julian Weber.

Mr. Larsen's 7B Class: The 7B class, under Mr. Larsen, have been working on punctuation and the placing of commas in English. We are continuing with percentage in arithmetic; in social studies we have been studying the Revolutionary War period in early American history. Before Christmas our class enjoyed a nicely decorated Christmas tree and a Christmas scene set on a table in the rear of the room, which was prepared by the pupils. In woodshop the boys are completing their boxes.— Charles Root.

Boy's Basketball Team: The Sierra Madre boys' basketball team, coached by Mr. McElfresh, is going to play in a tournament next Saturday, January 11th, at a neighboring school. The boys have won three out of the first four games played this year, so they are in high spirits. They were in hope they might enter the lightweight division of the tournament, but the players find that they must be placed in the heavyweight class.—Truett McCullagh.

ITS MOSTLY JUST ONE BAD MOTORIST

Nine automobile drivers out of ten are carful and law-abiding; its the tenth that causes the trouble. Those nine careful drivers could operate their cars on our highways for the next 50 years and probably never have a scratched fender, suggests the Automobile Club of Southern California public safety department. But along comes that tenth driver, weaving in and out of traffic, and upsetting everything. The careless and the careful alike must take the consequences.

FIRE FLAMES

By One of the Boys

Reports from different Sierra Madre citizens who viewed the parade at Pasadena (from different locations along the line) are that they heard much favorable comment on our float. To those who have not experienced the work of preparing these pageant entries, they have much to learn as to the work required. To those who have helped, much credit is due, but to praise each and everyone for their particular aid would be quite a job. However, it was very evident that many of the folks who worked quietly and steadily were the persons who made much progress. Many of these were not looking for praise, but only to help. The fire department was well represented.

If we have a serious fire in town, will our new alarm system work efficiently? The first sound of the alarm will probably awaken the firemen, but they will have to wait and listen until they hear the next complete signal before they can start for the fire. Then it will be a problem as to whether they should go north, east, south or west in the locality of the number called. Time and experience will tell. For a city the size and population of Sierra Madre, there should be no objection to an efficient fire alarm system that would not hinder the firemen. The first few minutes at the fire are important.

A. L. A. Activities

The Auxiliary Chrismas party held at the home of Grace Caukin, was a very enjoyable affair. Members gathered for a 6:30 potluck supper which was followed by the regular unit meeting after which members and guests adjourned to the living room to enjoy the gorgeous Christmas tree which held a surprise package for each one. Music and an informal goodtime was enjoyed by all.

Community Service Chairman Catherine Miller and her committee made coffee and sandwiches for the workers on the float on New Year's eve.

Grace Caukin gave a report at our unit meeting on the "Green Guards," a new National Defense movement instituted by the Women of America.

Our next meeting will be held at the home of Grace Caukin, 49 South Baldwin avenue, Thursday evening, January 9th. At this meeting, nominations will be open for Chaplain, that office being vacated by the transfer of Mrs. May Evans to East Pasadena unit.

Maybelle C. Barker, Press Chmn.

Great minds had rather deserve contemporaneous applause without attaining it than attain without deserving it. If it follow them it is well, but they will not deviate to follow it.—Colton.

Nursery Training School Will Be Opened Here Soon

Sierra Madre parents who believe that children having the advantage of nursery school training develope a higher I. Q. and have a better chance to adjust themselves to modern life, will soon have an opportunity to place their children in one of the finest schools of this type in California, as Miss Elsa Neustadt, associate of Madam Maria Montessori plans to establish a nursery school here shortly.

Miss Neustadt has European as well as United States credentials for the opening of such a school, She studied with Madam Montessori in Rome, Berlin, London and Barcelona and founded various nursery schools in Europe.

Since coming to the United States she has been affiliated with the Quakers at their Westchester County School for Children in New York, and at the children's summer camp at Montessori Village in Pennsylvania. She has published more than 26 volumes on child psychology and occupational therapy.
